Robin Hammerman and Andrew Russell’s edited volume on Ada Lovelace (appeared for December 2015 bicentennial) . . . Misa’s edited volume Communities of Computing: Computer Science and Society in the ACM (2016)

Research Workshop Misa 2015 one-time $10K
[approx $10K]

ACM HC organized a mini-workshop on ACM history embedded in the annual meeting of the Society for the History of Technology (Albuquerque NM 8-11 Oct 2015); two full sessions accepted onto the program with a total of 8 ACM history-related papers. See below for ACM Book publication (forthcoming 2016)

Oral History Workshop Whitton 2016 one-time $20K
[approx $22K]

ACM HC organized a two-day workshop on oral-history principles and practices (UNC Chapel Hill 12-13 May 2016) with external workshop leader Mary Marshall Clark <<http://www.incite.columbia.edu/mary-marshall-clark>>. See below for highlights.

3. PLANS

3.1 Projects that will be completed or terminated in the coming year.

We have commissioned oral histories of previous editors-in-chief from CACM and JACM. Two oral histories are in final editing.

3.2 List important changes or milestones in active projects during the coming year.

Tom Haigh began work as Turing Award website Curator-in-Chief in January 2015: he wrote the entry for Turing 2014 awardee Michael Stonebraker (now posted); and commissioned historian Jeffrey Yost to write entries for Turing 2015 awardees Whitfield Diffie and Martin Hellman (the two essays are done, edited, and are being reviewed prior to posting).

Mike Williams began active curator role for Turing Oral History Project (at work summer 2015). He is now [June 2016] processing 5 completed interviews, 2 additional interviews have been scheduled, and there are active discussions with 3 more Turing awardees. A total of 22 interviews are planned at present.

ACM HC held a “research workshop” at the annual SHOT meeting in mid-October 2015; many of the presentations, duly revised, are forthcoming fall 2016 in Communities of Computing: Computer Science and Society in the ACM, a volume Misa is editing for ACM Books (now in production).

Committee chair Misa published an update on ACM HC activities “Computing is History” in Communications of the ACM 58 no. 10 (October 2015): 35-37.

ACM HC organized a well-received “oral history workshop” UNC Chapel Hill during 12-13 May 2016 (see blog post at <<http://historyblog.acm.org/?m=201605>>) with 16 attendees. A detailed post-workshop survey highlighted many positive experiences (small group; hands-on character; close contact with group leader [an established expert in oral history methods]; wide diversity in ages, national backgrounds, institutional homes, perspectives; ample time for personal connections; varied experience with different roles [interviewing, being interviewed, analyzing; planning]; open discussion) as well as several suggestions for future (clear expectations, relation to established practices in computing history). The 17-page summary can be used in planning future events, which are highly desired by attendees of 2014 archiving, 2015 research, and 2016 oral-history workshops.

3.3 List new projects or programs which are proposed or contemplated.

We are discussing follow-up activities for the successful “archiving” workshop (May 2014), “research” workshop (October 2015), and “oral history” workshop (May 2016).

3.4 List details of plan to increase the diversity of the committee membership, with respect to younger members, a wider geographic representation, and a better balance with respect to industry/academia, gender, and other under-represented groups.

Two recently added members (December 2015) are: Barbara Owens, Southwestern University; and Vicki L. Almstrum, DeVry University, representing the Computer Educators Oral History Project.

The current composition of the committee is reasonably diverse. Six out of 14 current members are female, including the past chair. Six new members have been added in the past several years, two from industry and three female. The geographic distribution includes one international member and representative geographical coverage from across the U.S. While half of the members are academics, one works as a librarian in a university institute, and two direct museums or historical institutes; three have careers in industry. Most of the members are mid-career to senior, other than Tao Xie, a recent associate professor. The committee has strong SIGPLAN and SIGGRAPH connections and hopes to expand its SIG connections.

4. COMMENTS

List any comments you wish brought to your Board's or Council's attention.

The ACM History Committee mobilizes the members' expertise to advise ACM and associates on how to properly handle historical documents, interviews, and information. This year, we responded actively to ACM president Alexander Wolf's request to evaluate possible international research projects in history of computing. We recommended that, if ACM wishes to fund international historical projects, that it create a open call for proposals and an appropriate means to evaluate and fund them.
