Benefits:2010*Member Benefits provided to SIGCAS Members:

- The quarterly online magazine Computers and Society is our major product. C&S features high-quality articles dealing with social issues of computerization and related technologies, as well as book reviews, information about conferences, and teaching resources. Members have access to the full archive of the online publication and its printed predecessor. One issue per year is printed and mailed to all SIGCAS members. Please see www.computersandsociety.org.
- While we do not sponsor our own conference, we participate as an "in cooperation" sponsor of several ACM and non-ACM conferences related to our interests. Members frequently receive special rates or other privileges for these events. The events vary from year to year, but generally include the Conference on Universal Usability, the International Symposium on Technology and Society, the Computer Ethics, Philosophical Enquiry (CEPE) conferences, and others. SIGCAS-sponsored events have taken place at SIGCSE and SIGITE.
- SIGCAS presents two awards each year: The Making a Difference Award and the SIGCAS Outstanding Service award.
- SIGCAS-ANNOUNCE mailing list - includes regular announcements of upcoming conferences and calls for participation.
